

Quick Tips

Make Your Pledge First

If your co-workers know that you have already pledged your support, they are more likely to give.

Be prepared to share your story about why you support the campaign, or how a charity has benefited you or someone that you know.

Know the Facts

Thoroughly review the materials and the website: (www.secc texas.org).

This will help you feel more comfortable when you tell the story. Make personal contact, even virtually: PEOPLE GIVE TO PEOPLE. It's important that every campaign volunteer reaches out to their assigned employees one-on-one.

Be Positive

Explain the benefits of charitable giving.

Stress the importance of each person's contribution. None of us can do it alone. Every gift makes a difference!

Ask Co-Workers You Know

Approaching people you know first.

It is helpful as you refine your "ask". Positive responses will help to improve your presentation and boost your confidence regarding your presentation skills.

Make It a Two-Way Street

The ask should be a dialogue, not a monologue.

Be prepared for questions and comments. If you don't know the answer to a question, that's okay! Say you are unsure but will find out — then circle back with the answer when you get one. Be sure to listen with care and sensitivity to any concerns that come your way.

Why Do You Give?

Connect the dots between a donor's interests and the campaign's work.

Part of your dialogue should include asking potential donors about their interests.

Say Thank You

Whether your co-workers indicate that they intend to make a gift or not, thank them sincerely for their consideration and time. You can never say thank you enough!

10 Steps to a Successful Campaign

While each campaign is unique, these 10 steps are the building blocks for an effective campaign and should be followed as closely as possible. Your campaign staff will help you to develop a plan that works best for your organization.

- 1

Develop a Plan

By looking at where you have been, you can better determine where you are going. Analyzing past campaigns will help reveal areas of opportunity and provide clues for improvement.

To build a solid campaign you will need to...

 - Review your organization’s giving history and analyze campaign data.
 - Establish a campaign timeline — campaign committee meeting dates, trainings, leadership giving campaign dates, campaign kickoff, employee meetings and special events (virtual and/or in person).
 - Implement strategies to meet your campaign goals.
- 2

Establish Support From the Top

The success of your campaign depends on the commitment and involvement of your top management and senior leadership. Keep them informed of the campaign progress.

Work with your top management to:

 - Set up a CEO call with campaign staff.
 - Help determine campaign goals and objectives.
 - Endorse the campaign.
 - Appoint a campaign steering committee that includes a campaign chairperson and a Leadership Giving chair.
 - Attend campaign events (virtual and/or in-person).
 - Conduct a Leadership Giving campaign among top management or those with the capacity to give at the leadership level ($1,000+ annually).
 - Provide thank you recognition to volunteers and donors.

- 3

Set Your Campaign Goal

Establishing a target serves as a motivator to achieve better results.

Your campaign goal should be:

 - Based on past campaign results.
 - Realistic yet challenging.
 - Set for both dollars raised and percent participation (not 100%)
- 4

Recruit and Train Your Campaign Team

The campaign committee and coordinators will organize efforts to educate fellow employees about the campaign. They build excitement for the campaign, answer questions and ensure that everyone is asked to give.

To get the most from your volunteers...

 - Seek out employees with various skill sets that represent departments throughout your organization.
 - Find employees who support the campaign to serve on the committee and as coordinators.
 - Recruit one coordinator for every 25 to 30 employees.

The campaign committee needs to:

 - Attend a virtual or in-person training facilitated by campaign staff.
 - Assist in all stages of campaign planning.
 - Have specifically-assigned roles.
 - Review the prior campaign plans and share new ideas.

- 5

Run a Leadership Giving Campaign

Leadership gifts of $1,000 or more are the organization’s best opportunity for increasing average gift and campaign growth. An employee campaign that strongly encourages leadership giving is likely to be a successful campaign. Peer-to-peer solicitation and personal asks are critical to the successful cultivation of leadership gifts.

How to make it a success...

 - Appoint a Leadership Giving chairperson to organize the leadership giving campaign.
 - Host a Leadership Giving campaign among your organization’s management prior to the overall campaign kickoff.
 - Conduct additional virtual or in-person Leadership Giving events throughout the campaign.
 - Personally ask current givers to consider increasing their gift.
- 6

Communicate

Education and information are keys to reaching your campaign goals. Create an atmosphere of enthusiasm as you inform employees about how their contributions improve lives in our community.

Successful promo strategies include...

 - Employee testimonials, campaign facts and articles (distributed via print, email or video).
 - Endorsement letters from top management and labor leaders.
 - Virtual and/or in-person kickoff rallies and contests.
 - Large and small group in-person and/or virtual meetings (consider including speakers from participating charities).
 - Graphics, charity stories/videos to include in emails and communications.
 - Posters, banners, and displays that include campaign posters and banners.
 - Incentives for turning in pledge forms.
 - Campaign brochures and pledge forms.
- 7

Educate Employees and Make the Ask

This is by far the most important step. The major reason people do not give is because they were never asked, so ASK EVERYONE! Giving is a personal decision, but please be sure to allow everyone the opportunity to contribute.

 - Provide coordinators with a list of employees they are responsible for soliciting.
 - Educate through employee virtual and/or in-person meetings within department / division workgroups.

- Invite every employee.
 - Follow up with one-on-one communication.
- Your meeting should include:*
- Campaign staff.
 - A charity speaker or employee that connects with the message of the campaign.
 - Promotion of payroll deduction.
 - An opportunity to address donor concerns.
- 8

Report Your Results

Regular reporting allows the team to monitor the progress of the campaign, while keeping you from having to hold cash, checks, and pledge forms.

 - Develop and communicate a plan for coordinators to return pledge forms weekly, in person or electronically.
 - Ensure the pledge forms are filled out completely, signed and that the math is accurate.
 - Provide weekly progress reports to organizational leadership and campaign staff.
 - Ensure report envelope totals are accurate.
 - Report the final campaign total to the entire organization.
- 9

Say Thank You!

The importance of thanking everyone who helped you to accomplish your goals cannot be over-emphasized.

 - Send personal thank you cards or emails to the campaign team.
 - Have top management send an organization-wide thank you and acknowledgement.
 - Have the campaign chairperson host a final virtual or in-person thank you event for campaign volunteers and leadership givers.
- 10

Evaluate Results and Plan for Next Year!

Be sure to keep the momentum of your campaign and learn from your experience to improve future campaigns.

 - Host a debriefing session to evaluate your campaign’s plan and results with the campaign committee and coordinators.
 - Solicit feedback on the campaign from top management.
 - Identify next year’s lead campaign coordinator.
 - Establish a timeline for next year’s campaign planning.
